DJE - Equity Market Neutral Europe is an equity fund focusing on large European quality companies. The fund invests at least 51% of its assets in equities at all times. The aim of the fund is positive absolute added value, even in falling markets (no guarantee). To this end, the fund management invests the majority of the fund assets in up to 50 approximately equally weighted individual stocks. Following a detailed bottom-up analysis these appear more promising than the overall market. Aiming to neutralize the market risk it is largely hedged with the help of index and currency derivatives.

The presented charts and tables concerning performance are based on our own calculations according to the gross performance (BVI) method¹ and illustrate past development. Future results may vary both positively and negatively. The BVI method takes into account all costs incurred at the fund level (e.g. management fees), the net performance and the issue fee. Additional individual costs may be incurred at the customer level (e.g. custodian fees, commission and other charges). Model calculation (net): an investor wishes to purchase shares for Euro 1,000. With a maximum issue surcharge of 0.00%, he has to spend a one-off amount of Euro 0.00 when making the purchase. In addition, there may be custodian costs that reduce performance. The custodian costs are decided by your bank's price list and service charges. Information regarding past development is not a reliable indicator of future performance.

MONTHLY COMMENTARY

In particular the disappointment at the fruitless talks and the recent escalation of the trade conflict between the USA and China weighed heavily on the markets in May. In this context China threatened to play off its dominant position in the rare earths sector. Apart from the escalation in the trade conflict leading indicators in the euro zone disappointed: the purchasing managers' indices for the euro zone and Germany fell further to 47.7 and 44.3 points, respectively, although market participants had expected a slight recovery. At 97.9 points, the German Ifo Business Climate Index reached its lowest level since 2014. Investor sentiment was also depressed by various (geo)political turbulences such as tensions in the Persian Gulf and renewed concerns about a disorderly Brexit. On the other hand, the positive moments such as the expansion of corporate earnings growth in the first quarter hardly provided any impetus. Those who followed well-known stock market philosophies such as "Sell in May" were confirmed in their actions at the end of May. The market-wide European share index STOXX 600 fell -5.70% and thus lost more than a third of its profits collected in the course of the year to date. Anyone who did not pay attention to such stock market wisdom nevertheless did not have to slide down with the market: The DJE - Equity Market Neutral Europe was able to hold its ground in the gloomy environment and at -0.11%, remained virtually unchanged from the previous month. The strong underweight in banking and industrial stocks essentially paid off. While the fund had still suffered considerably in April, this decision proved to be correct in May if one looks at both months together. A positive performance was also achieved with utility and insurance stocks. The negative performance of auto and construction stocks prevented a better result at fund level. The food stocks, which had been so profitable to date, also had to give in.

INVESTMENT APPROACH

The basic idea of DJE - Equity Market Neutral Europe is the conviction that an active selection of sectors and individual shares is superior to a benchmark index in the long term and can achieve significant added value. Compared to European equity indices, often comprising several hundred stocks, the fund's portfolio contains only a maximum of 50 positions, which are analysed and selected on the basis of fundamental, monetary and market criteria. Due to their weighting, each individual position has a noticeable influence on the portfolio performance. In addition, the fund management aims to neutralise market risks: Instead of hedging the securities held in the portfolio individually, part of the fund assets is invested in an index derivative. This develops positively when the broad European stock index falls; conversely, it weighs on fund performance when the index rises. Furthermore, the individual securities are weighted approximately equally. This serves to limit the risk of the fund's sector weighting deviating from the broad European equity market to the selection of individual stocks. In this way, the fund aims to achieve the most stable positive performance possible, irrespective of the market environment (no guarantee).
